THE DAILY U

VOL. I. SALISBURY, N. C. MO

A Marrying Woman.

United States Detective Cook, of Parkersburg, reached this city yesterday morning on the steamer New State, having in charge a female sharper, whose name and place of residence he was unable to ascertain. The woman is charged with swindling Federal officers, and it is said she has been married to four different military officers within the last three months. The first she married near Gallopole; he was a young man who had just been mustered out of the service, and had between one thousand and twelve hundred dollars in greenbacks. About a week after they were married, the young wife alleged to have received a letter from her parents requesting her to come home. She pretended to leave for home, but before her departure she managed to secure the greater portion of her husband's money.

She was soon in company with another officer, a hasty marriage, a hasty robbery, and a hasty flight ensued. A third officer was soon duped, and a week or two since a fourth officer fell a victim to her caresses and attentions. Soon after the fourth marriage she left her husband and went to Parkersburg, where she was overtaken and arrested by officer Cook. When brought to this city, her delicate little wrists were encased in a stout pair of bracelets, which were securely locked. It is said the woman has succeeded in stealing over $3,000 by her duplicity and roguery. She was yesterday taken over into Ohio, where it was thought she could be identified and brought to justice. She is a young woman, not more than twenty-two years of age, and is rather prepossessing in appearance.—Wheeling, Va., Register.

Our Plain Duty.

The evident accord of feeling regarding National and State policy, existing between President Johnson and Governor Holden, in our present relations, renders it extremely desirable that the people should elect the latter gentleman Governor of the State.—We believe it to be vital to State interests that such should be the result of the coming election.

It is unfortunate that more stress is not laid upon this important fact. Our people seem to have forgotten that much of our immunity from the more rigid exactions of a conquering government are due to the influence which our present Governor wields at Washington. His efforts to lighten the burdens consequent upon our defeat in the late war have ever been respected by the administration, and the numerous instances in which those efforts have been honored were so marked as to gain for Gov. H. the name, among the enemies of the South, of "Andy Johnson's pet Governor." Indeed he has been strongly censured by some of the Southern press for the warm interest he has taken in securing pardons for prominent Confederates. Upon every occasion the President of the United States has delighted to honor Gov. Holden, and to show to the nation the amount of confidence reposed in him.

To the exertions of Gov. Holden is due the removal of nearly all the troops in this State before the assembling of the Convention. For his credit may also be placed the almost total change of trials from military to civil courts. Already are the Provost Marshals being relieved in different portions of the State and the office declared abolished. The railroad lines, with the exception of a small section between Goldsboro' and Morehead City, have been turned over to the respective companies, and we learn that the last rail will be delivered up to the company during the present week. Our State has more post offices and post routes open and more postal facilities granted now than any other Southern State. More men have been pardoned and restored to the free possession of their property and rights in North Carolina than in any two of the insurgent States combined. All these blessings are due to the influence which Governor Holden exerts with the administration.

Mr. Johnson has the most implicit trust in and respect for Governor Holden, and has stretched the quality of executive clemency, in many instances, to show to the people of North Carolina that they love their executive.

These evidences of a personal preference are too plain to be ignored, and if we want our State to obtain her relief from the political disabilities under which she is now laboring, it is our plain duty to honor him who possesses the confidence of the administration.

Let us view it in another light. The people of North Carolina have frequently been grossly misrepresented at the North. The reports of our disloyalty have been scattered far and wide and attempts were made to dishonor us at Washington.

Gov. Holden, as Executive of the State, assured the President that however detailed and circumstantial were these reports, they were false; that the people of the State had subscribed to the oath of allegiance in good faith and were religiously observing it. The effect of this assurance has been seen in the kindly sentiments expressed by the President for the State.

If these people, in the face of the plain policy of Andrew Johnson, oppose the man whom he has selected above all others as the instrument to carry out his honorable intentions, they are guilty of stigmatizing the Governor as a falsifier, and bring up on themselves the suspicion of perjury.

We have nothing to say regarding the loyalty or disloyalty of Mr. Worth. He may be a very proper man, in every sense. But his relations to the government are not those of Gov. Holden, nor will his election add to the spirit of conciliation now so much desired. If the administration had desired Mr. Worth to be Governor of North Carolina, he, and not Gov. Holden, would have received the appointment.

We must remember that our State does not yet enjoy the sweet privilege of shaping her own political course. We have not yet been received into the Union, and we must respect the wishes of the United States Government—if we expect to be benefitted by the amnesty policy of that government. To elect for our first Governor the candidate who is the favorite of that class which supported the Confederacy, is not the proper course to pursue in order to attain such a desired end.—New Berne Times.

"ASA HARTZ."—New Berne, North Carolina, must be on the high road to prosperity, as the Times announces that it is forced to enlarge its sheet owing to the increase of advertising patronage. Why is it that "Asa Hartz" writes so little for his paper in that once happy strain that was wont to set the people in a roar?—Has he grown rusty, and is his pen blunted? Since he took up the sword he has not soared so high with the goosequill.—Norfolk Post.

"Asa" is not dead, my bower, he "only sleepeth." Thank you kindly for the notice of him. But how in the thunder can a man write leaders for a daily paper, clip news, localize, read proof, keep books, charge up two or three columns of advertisements a day, and then find time to write "Asa Hartz" letters? Our V. is off on a business mission, my bower, and we—Asa—are alone. It cannot be did. This will doubtless seem strange, and yet people will wonder at it.—New Berne Times.

are well known to the people of Rowan as men of ability, integrity, and legislative capacity. We know not for whom they will vote for Governor, but in justice to them, we will say, that they are eminently worthy of the position for which they are recommended, and that we believe they will, if elected, give entire satisfaction to their constituents.

They will run together on the same ticket, and will be known and voted for as the UNION TICKET. No men will prove more acceptable to the people of Rowan than they.

They may vote for Gov. Holden, or they may not, this is a question not for us to determine.—We want good, competent legislators, who will reflect credit upon our county and people. This is the important matter, and it is the duty of every man to first satisfy himself that he has made such a selection, before he casts his vote. Do this, fellow citizens, and all will be well. Let no party prejudice deter you from the discharge of this high duty and prerogative.

Parties and Party Designations.

The Richmond Whig very pertinently remarks, old parties have passed away and become obsolete. Party designations should pass away with them. They are no longer appropriate. The objects of the new parties now in process of formation are essentially different from those of the old organizations. It would be quite as sensible for a politician to proclaim himself a fifth monarchy man, as a Whig, or an advocate for the restoration of the Stuarts, as a Democrat. Progress is the characteristic of this age. There is progress in nomenclature as in events. To apply old and inappropriate names to new political organizations from a mere childish attachment to those names, is of the essence of Fogysm. Some one has said, "names are things." The remark is only true of those names that so completely represent the nature and qualities of the subjects of them, as to be, to our contemplation, the things themselves.

The characters of the two parties now forming in the United States, are not expressed by the names Democrats and Whigs, or by the names Democrats and Republicans, or Democrats and Free-Soilers, or Abolitionists. The principles, indicated by these several designations are no longer the distinctive and animating principles of the political parties of the country. Slavery is a lapsed and lost issue. Between Whigs and Democrats there is no contest. The term Republican applied to the party assuming it is a palpable misnomer. While there may be many factions and subdivisions of parties, there can only be two great parties: The Constitutional Party, headed by president Johnson, and the Unconstitutional Party, headed by Charles Sumner and Thaddeus Stevens. There is no better reason for calling the former the Democratic Party, than there is for styling the latter the Republican Party. There is no applicability in either name. The proper designations are Conservatives and Radicals. These terms are descriptive of their characteristics, and by them they should be known to the world.

tion being passed away. Between the old Whigs and the old Democrats there is now no real barrier, no material wall of separation. The only impediment in the way of their union and fraternization is in the words themselves. In the formation of a new organization composed of the materials of both, neither should claim the right of christening it. A new name should be given it in order to remove old prejudice.

FROM ITALY.

PETITION IN BEHALF OF JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Gen. G. Garibaldi, Philosopher N. Tomageo, C. R. Borromeo, Fredrico Bellazzi, and Hundreds of distinguished Citizens the Petitioners.

From Washington we are informed that on Saturday afternoon an Italian Committee, composed of Prof. Achille Magni, Mr. Henry Fardella, who lately distinguished himself as General in the Union army, and Mr. Theodore Manara, who fought for the independence of Italy, all residents of New York, gained an introduction to President Johnson in order to present to His Excellency the following petition, sent to Prof. Achille Magni by the Committee in Milan. This gentleman, after introducing his honorable colleagues, then explained to the President the object of their interview:

MR. PRESIDENT: The public opinion in Italy, such as it may be represented by the former Ministers of the Government, B. Ricagni and Minghetti, by the present Premier, Gen. A. La Marmora, by a number of Senators, by one hundred and sixty-one Representatives, and by the most distinguished men and associations of that country, is in favor of supporting the humane idea of our great statesmen, Cesare B. e. i. e., to have capital punishment abolished.

In this enterprise towards progress and Christian civilization, the Italians have already gained the approbation and support of the greatest and most liberal minded men in Europe, such as Vieta Hugo, Louis Blanc, Michelet, Jules Favre, Holtsendorff, Mittermeyer, R. Cobden, John Bright, and the like. The Executive Committee established in Milan in order to carry into practice this idea, among other measures thought also of sending your Excellency a petition, signed by hundreds of their distinguished citizens, by Philosopher Tomageo, and by Gen. G. Garibaldi, begging that in the name of humanity, without offending the susceptibility of anybody, they might be permitted to beseech you to join in their views, and mainly in behalf of Jefferson Davis. Here the President, with an accent of surprise, interrupted the speaker, saying: "They plead for Jefferson Davis?" Yes, continued Prof. Magni, they delegated us to present your Excellency their original petition and hope that by vouchsafing their supplication you would crown this glorious country with the laurel of peace, and to give to all nations of the world an unparalleled example of magnanimity and wisdom, which will shine to all future generations and bring blessing upon you forever.

PROF. ACHILLE MAGNI,
GEN. HENRY FALDLELA,
MR. THEODORE MANALA,

Committee.
Afterward the following petition was handed to His Excellency, and the said gentlemen took leave:

MILAN, July 21, 1865.
CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE for the National Monument to the First Supporter of the Abolition of Capital Punishment, Cesare Baccaria, Piazza Borromeo, No. 5,
To His Excellency ANDREW JOHNSON, President of the United States of America:
A nation still far from that fullness of life and power to which she is entitled, nay, even under the necessity of appealing to the universal brotherhood in order to overcome the last obstacles to her revival, has in a special degree the right of speaking in the name of humanity without tending anybody's pride. Therefore we hope that you in receiving our supplication, will for get that we are citizens of a foreign nation, and will remember only that we are men and your own brethren.

The death of President Lincoln plunged us into mourning, but the execution of Davis would make us blush. We cannot comprehend through what necessity the justice of a great and victorious people could imitate the vengeance of an assassin detested even by your vanquished as infamous. We cannot understand why the American Union should be less sure either of the greatness of its integrity, if to so much blood shed during the war this one drop more, coldly spilled in peace, should not be added. Davis from his scaffold would say: "Then I make you tremble."

Battling for freedom and justice against the institutions and prejudices of old Europe, we have up to the present strenuously advocated that where freedom reigns thence violence is banished; where the people are sovereign there the hangman is not their minister. To the timid and incredulous we have until now pointed out the example of your States; but if a contrary example should henceforth support him who founds order on terror, if that beneficial influence which has fostered liberty in Europe, should no longer be shed from America, the fatal contagion of legal violence may perhaps begin to extend from Europe to your shores.

It has been said that republics are more inexorable than tyrants; that tyrants may practice clemency from fear, ambition, or a sudden impulse of a natural goodness; that republics, on the contrary, fear no censure, seek no applause—are heartless. But we know that the President of your Republic can feel for every one. Abraham Lincoln would not have deserved either such dogged hatred from the wicked, or such genuine, earnest love and sorrow from the good, had he not gained from the triumphs of war the sublime force to command pardon from the victors of the conquered. Now the attention of all as well as our prayer, is directed toward your Excellency, the heir of the task and the virtues of your predecessor. While public opinion in Europe compels the monarchs to mitigate the rigor of the laws by exercising "their right of grace," the friends of human progress are tremblingly awaiting your action, and hoping that the American people, at least in time of peace, will take the ax from the faces of their hectors.

Signed by the Executive Committee for the erection of a monument to Cesare Beccaria, and for the abolition of capital punishment.

A CARD

To the Voters of Rowan County.

The undersigned offers himself as an independent candidate to represent you in the House of Commons at the ensuing Legislature. I deem it unnecessary to review my antecedents in connection with the late war, as they are too well known by you to require comments. If elected, I pledge myself to the administration of President Johnson the support it demands, and will use every exertion consistent with honor, to procure a speedy withdrawal of U. States troops from the State, and to facilitate reconstruction by the admission of North Carolina to a full participation in all the rights and powers of a State, under the Federal Constitution.

As regards the election of other offices, the statement of any preference I may feel, for candidates for any other office, would seem like dictation on my part, and I shall refrain from doing so, as I think every man should vote according to the dictates of his judgment and conscience.

I am uncompromisingly opposed to negro suffrage, restricted or general, in any manner shape or form.

If elected, I shall vote for a Commissioner to recover property belonging to the State, improperly taken during the war, so as to lighten your taxes as much as possible. I shall also favor the election of Magistrates, Judges, and other officers, by the people—as I regard the people the best judges of those who would suit them. I shall also favor hard work, short speeches and short sessions of the Legislature to lessen our expenses. I am a plain man, sprung from the people—one of yourselves—my feelings and sympathies are with the people—I think I understand them, and if elected, believe I can reflect their wishes. Your ob't servant,

D. L. BRINGLE.

The editor of the Fayetteville News pokes fun at the Convention as follows:

North Carolina has had gathered in Convention her wise men—her bedford Brown—her Nat. Boyden—her Sam. Phillips—her Bobby Dick—her Bar. Moore—and her McDonald, of Moore.—And they have got off an extraordinary thing in the shape of an "Ordinance," which cannot fail in a ter generations to acclaim each and every one of these distinguished lights to imperishable celebrity.

The "Ordinance," though not worded exactly as this which follows, is in substance the same:

Resolved, That we are going home to retake the places around the old family hearthstone that have never been vacated by us; and that we are going to rejoin our brethren, from whom we have never been parted.

Resolved, That we wish it distinctly understood that we rescind the secession ordinance, because we fear if we do not, we cannot get back into the Union; but at the same time.

Resolved, That there never has been in existence, or in force, any ordinance of secession; and if there has been, we are afraid to say so, for fear of offending the authorities.

Resolved, That Dixie is no longer a pretty tune, and the parable of the prodigal son is "some pumpkins."

LOCAL.

RUS IN URBE.

Old times are reviving. Last Saturday was to all appearances a gala day in Salisbury. The whole country, seemed to be in town. By common consent, as if a great festival had been announced, and perhaps not dissimilar to those gatherings of which we read at the celebration of the Oracle of Delphi or the games of the Olympiad, did our good people meet in town. Matrons and lasses, old men and young gents, beauty and youth, indiscriminately and with cheerful faces mingled merrily together through our streets, buying and selling—trading lively. It reminded us of days of yore, ere war and bloodshed cast their gloom over our peaceful land, when peace, plenty, and prosperity beamed in every face and were witnessed in all the bustling, busy routine of happy life. It was a pleasant scene. We are glad to see so many of our country people in town trading. It is an evidence of prosperity.

THE CONCORD CASE.

The arguments in this case were closed on Saturday and the case submitted to the Commission.

Their decision has not yet been divulged. Every one who heard the able argument of W. H. Bailey, Esq., must have been satisfied, to use his own language, that the whole affair was a "tempest in a tea pot."

The Military authorities are in no wise to blame as they here merely done their duty in the premises and acted on the highly colored statements of certain parties who went off "half-cocked."

FROM THE LAND OF SUNRISE, Far off Asia, come the aromatic roots, of which Fragrant Sazodent is composed. In this preparation the chemistry of the toilet has achieved its most remarkable triumph. Pure, unsullied teeth, and agreeable breath, and absolute exemption from all diseases that affect the gums, are the results of a daily application of the Sazodent.
